DELAY IN OPENING CHUNGKING. It will amuse many and disgust some to hear that, according to our latest advices, Chungking is not yet opened. The Customs staff, a coniderable number of foreigners and Chinese, with all their private and official impediments, are still living in junks on the river in the greatost discomfort; the British Consul is more comfortable in the house in the city that has been doonpled for some years by the wandering representatives of the Queen in the west of China. and is meanwhile negotiating for a site ou which to build a consulate; and the merchants of the future are to live wherever they can, as it is not, at present at any rate, intended to ask for a concession. Our Chungking correspondent, in his letter of the Sta altimo, explained that the Customs staff could not have, as they had expected, the use of the yamen provided for the temporary residence of passing officials, because the Tactal was just going out of office. # THE NEW PORT IN JAPAN

If we mistake not Kobe and Otaka will have their commercial noses put considerably put out of joint after the March of next year. At present they are the entrapots of nearly all the foreign trade of Shikoka, of Northern Kynshu. of the Sanindo, and of the Sanyodo. But with the opening of the new part vis-u-vis to Shimoneseki, the merchants of the Central Treaty Port and of the commercial capital of Japan will and constrained to imitate the spouse of Phiness and c'ep: their next-born children "Ichabod."

Moji is just in a position to tap the whole f the above-mentioned tract of country. It lies right under the flank of a steepish range of rugged heights that begin with Adachi-yama and Miyoken-san immediately above Kokura, and terminate in the scraggy scar whose buse is being slowly but surely eaten away by the racing whirlpools of Shimonosaki Strait. n the top of this sourp is one of the six formidable batteries which in future will make this passage a wonderfully difficult one for hostile ressels to negotiate. It looks down upon walled street of Bakan running ribbou-like slong their base, upon Dannours, the spot where the Minamoto crushed the power of the Tairs for ever 700 years ago, and upon the scene of what we cumhemistically term the "Shimonoseki offair" of 64 Off Bakan the tide speeds. along, at a stiffish six or seven knots an hour; over at Meji, about a mile distant, the waters are as quiet and calm as a mill-poud. The abuttion northern elbow of the mountain mass forms a natural breakwater, and under its lee vessels drawing goodness only knows thow many feet can fetch up slongside the shore without the faintest difficulty. The only drawback is the limited amount of land available for building purposes. Landwards the situation in this respect is almost an exact replica of Hongkong and the Peak. The clan then bestirred themselves; the proctor was attacked, his chair smashed, himself beaten and allowed to escape by the skin of his teeth. The Chancellor was to have left by dawn, but his house was besieged, and he was informed that he could not be allowed to come out unless he deprived the proctor of his office. After delaying till midday, he consented and brooking the insult as best he could, degraded the proctor. Then and not till then he was allowed to depart. Can we have better evidence of the helplessmess of even high-placed mandarins at such a crisis? . Who knows whether a matter such athis attracts further notice and entails punishment? And what guarantee is there that the panishment required for the previous violence to the foreign missionaries will finally fall upon the right head?

Is it right that rules here, or is it might, or even that more mighty than might in China face? The mandarine were afraid to accept the generous offer of the missionaries to forgive and forget, provided a proclamation were issued stating the fact and censuring the real culprit -because it would take away his face; his face being gone, his friends would resent it, there would be further brawling, and the mandarins would lose not only face, but office.

True moral courage is needed surely. There is such a thing as, for the sake of right, being willing to lose face altogether, turning both right and left cheek to the smiter, but what government has the right to put its officials in such a position that loss of place and income is the price paid for such courage?-Daily News correspondent.

TIENTS!N. 2nd December. It is rumoured in official circles here that inall likelihood the newly appointed Governor-General of the Liang, Kinny, Liu Kanyi, will not take up his post, but will beg to be allowed Steamship Coys .to remain in retirement: The well-informed give three reasons for this supposition, the first being his great age, the second his devotion to the foreign drug, of which he consumes over two ounces a day, and the third his great private. wealth, of which Tls. 200,000 are said to have been amassed during the eight months he had tomporary charge of the Superintendency of Customs at Canton.
